Understanding Your Gallery & Editing Process

Hi _____,

Thank you so much for your patience. I hope you're feeling a little nostalgic and excited to relive these moments through your photos.

I wanted to share a little behind-the-scenes look at what goes into creating your gallery.

When I prepare your images, my focus is always on preserving the best quality possible. During the editing process, I carefully review every photo and group them by how they best tell your story and reflect the moments that matter most. Every image you receive has been edited with intention. I spend hours refining each portrait so your collection feels cohesive, beautiful, and true to my editing style.

What defines the best photo in my eyes? These are the portraits that feel complete and honest. They are sharp and balanced, filled with natural smiles, laughter, quiet emotion, or the simple way your eyes soften in a meaningful moment. These are the images that carry the heart of your story.

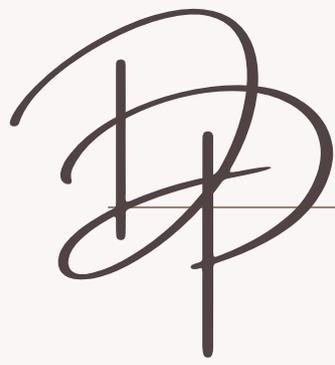

Once your gallery is ready, you'll notice several folders inside your personal collection.

Welcome Folder

A gentle introduction to your gallery.

DP Favorites

These are copies of your portraits, but they're the ones that personally move me the most. They're the photos that caught something real and unplanned. A tear. A laugh. A hand squeeze. A small pause where everything softened. These are the little things that often end up meaning the most. The way the wind brushed through your hair. The quiet look someone gave you when they thought no one was watching. Those are the moments I hold closest when curating your story.

Understanding Your Gallery & Editing Process

Timeline Folders

Your gallery will be arranged in the order of how everything unfolded, whether this was a wedding day or a standard session. These folders help tell the story from beginning to end with clarity and ease.

Black and White Duplicates

Every photo also has a black and white version. These edits highlight emotion and texture in a deeper way, letting the focus rest entirely on feeling and connection.

My hope is that your gallery feels like more than a set of images. I want it to feel like a living story, filled with warmth, authenticity, and reminders of how it all truly felt.

If applicable:

Please enjoy ___% off in my professional print store for your gallery's personal favorites. The store is directly linked within your gallery, so you can order prints with no additional uploading.

OR

You can easily order prints directly through your online gallery. You'll be able to choose your paper type, matting, or custom frame to match your home.

You can also create heirloom albums, which are beautiful keepsakes for preserving your story. There is something special about sitting down years from now and flipping through pages that hold your memories in a tangible way. Albums become treasures that can be shared with future generations and enjoyed for decades.

Warmly,
Darrien Peck
